

The arms trade is out of control

Every year, throughout the world, more than half a million¹ people are killed by armed violence – that's one person every minute. Every government around the world is responsible. Their lack of control on the arms trade is fueling conflict, poverty, and human rights abuses – worldwide.

You can help bring this crisis under control.

Oxfam, Amnesty International, and IANSA² (International Action Network on Small Arms), are campaigning for a global Arms Trade Treaty to bring the trade in weapons under control.

The time to act is now – please join us today.

We need you to join us in demanding tougher controls on the arms trade. Our aim is to collect one million faces as a powerful, visual message of support for the Arms Trade Treaty.

Find out more at www.controlarms.org

Jessica Galeria from Brazil showing her support for the campaign

Add your face to the Million Faces Petition

Either draw your self-portrait in this space, take a photograph of yourself and attach it here, or visit www.controlarms.org and send us your picture online.

This is my self-portrait/photo. I permit Amnesty International, Oxfam and the IANSA secretariat to use it to promote the campaign in both on and offline materials.

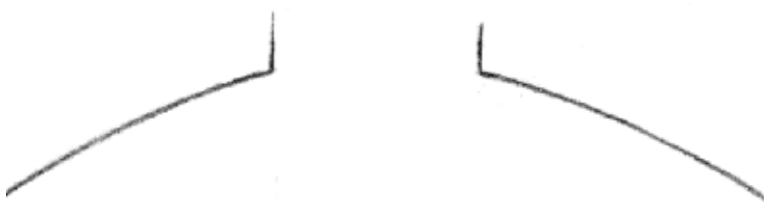

We are unable to accept photos from under 16s without parental consent. So, if you are under 16 please draw a picture of yourself.

*http://www.controlarms.org/terms_and_conditions.html

¹taken from Small Arms Survey 2001: Profiling the Problem, Oxford University Press, 2001

²Oxfam registered charity number 202918, company limited by guarantee, Amnesty International Limited, company registration number 1606776, limited by guarantee. IANSA Limited, company registration number 4452066, limited by guarantee.

inhouse 2486

Name:

Country:

