The Sustainable Cities: PLUS Network and Royal Roads University are collaborating on a series of e-Dialogues that will bring thought leaders together on a number of issues related to urban sustainability and long-term planning.

Join us for our e-Dialogue with international experts on youth engagement in city planning.

Moderated by Dr. Ann Dale, Canada Research Chair on Sustainable Community Development, panelists include well respected researchers and practitioners: Doug Ragan, University of Colorado—Centre for Children Youth and Environment; Erica Lay, UN Safer Cities Youth Engagement Coordinator -Dar es Salaam, Tanzania; Grace Meyong, Acting Manager for the Climate Change Division at the Environmental Youth Alliance (EYA) and Manager for Sustainable Community Enterprises; Ashley Pelletier, Americorps 'Vista for the City of Montpelier's Planning and Community Development Department'; and Amber Zirnhelt, Youth Engagement Program Manager – International Centre for Sustainable Cities.

Participate in the e-Dialogue and make a difference now to the sustainable future of cities. All participants must register in advance to participate in the e-Dialogue. Please go to <http://www.e-dialogues.ca> to register in the e-audience and 'listen' to the expert dialogue, and ask questions of the e-panel. The e-audience will remain open for 24 hours to allow you to ask questions and add your comments. We look forward to your participation in this critical public policy issue.

We would appreciate if you would share this announcement with your own networks.
